Report

A one-day workshop was organized jointly by the Research and Development Cell and the Institutional Innovation Council of Hindu Kanya Mahavidyalaya, Jind. The event was held in Seminar Hall, Room Number 108, with the objective of developing interest and awareness in research, innovation, and development among teachers and students.

The program was successfully coordinated by Dr. Sushma Garg, Convener of the Research and Development Cell. The event was conducted under the able leadership and inspiring guidance of the college principal, Dr. Poonam Mor.

The first speaker at the event was Dr. Sandeep Sharma, Assistant Professor at Government Women's College, Jind. In his inspiring lecture, he presented his valuable insights on the topic of "Research and Development Process and Ethics." He apprised the students of the research process, ethical values, and the importance of a scientific approach. Dr. Sharma stated that research and innovation in higher education are the foundation of any nation's progress.

The second speaker was Dr. Alpana Sharma, Assistant Professor at Government Women's College, Jind. She elaborated on the topic of "Funding Sources and Global Best Practices." She familiarized the students with various funding sources available for research projects, the process of preparing research proposals, and the best research practices being followed internationally.

Approximately fifty students from the undergraduate (UG) and postgraduate (PG) classes of the college enthusiastically participated in the workshop. The students attentively learned the useful suggestions, techniques, and practical tips related to research shared by the speakers. This session proved to be extremely informative, inspiring, and useful for all the participants.

On the successful organization of this program, the college principal, Dr. Poonam Mor, congratulated the Research and Development Cell and also expressed her gratitude to both the speakers for coming to the college and delivering their lectures. She said that such workshops encourage students' interest in research and scientific thinking.

On this occasion, Dr. Priyanka Sahni, Convener of the Institutional Innovation Council, also made a significant contribution to the success of the program. Dr. Seema Dalal, a member of the IIC cell, and co-coordinator Dr. Neelam Rani made a commendable contribution to the successful organization of the program.

At the conclusion of the program, Dr. Sushma Garg expressed her gratitude to all the guests, teachers, and students, saying that such events will continue to be a source of inspiration in the field of research and innovation in the future. On this occasion, Mrs. Poonam Singroha, Mrs. Sunita, Ms. Meenakshi and Ms. Surbhi provided their full support in carrying out the technical aspects of the program.
